19-year-old arrested after man found with multiple stab wounds at address in Birch Green

A 19-YEAR-old man from Skelmersdale has been arrested on suspicion of attempted murder after a man was found with multiple stab wounds.

Paramedics and police were called shortly after 7am on Sunday, February 10 to a report of an incident at an address in Helmsdale, Birch Green, where they found a 20-year-old man who had suffered multiple stab injuries.

He was treated at the scene by paramedics and taken to hospital where he remains in a serious condition.

The 19-year-old has been bailed to appear at a police station on March 11.

Detective Inspector Warren Atkinson said: "A young man has suffered serious injuries and our thoughts are with him at this time.

"A comprehensive investigation involving detectives, crime scene investigators, local and neighbourhood police teams is now underway.

"I understand that incidents of this nature are concerning but I would like to reassure the public that we believe this was an isolated attack and we are not looking for anybody else in connection with our investigation at this stage."

Anyone with information is asked to call police on 101 quoting log number 381 of February 10.

PITCH BATTLE!

Councillor says 'health and safety excuses' are blocking use of all-weather facility on former Glenburn site

Report by Henry James

THE leader of independent political group, Our West Lancashire claims youngsters in the borough are being denied the opportunity to play on the £650,000 3G pitch next to the former Glenburn Sports College in Skelmersdale by what he described as "health and safety excuses" issued by West Lancashire College.

Councillor Adrian Owens says that a new Skelmersdale community group, including people involved in the town's primary schools, have received an in-principle agreement from Lancashire County Council to lease the all-weather pitch at Glenburn.

And he claims that despite having identified the start-up funding required, the group is now being prevented from using the pitch by West Lancashire College over the "stumbling block" with regards to an access route to the site.

Cllr. Owens said: "We understand that West Lancashire College own the access road and car park adjacent to the 3G pitch which would be needed for access and parking for users of the pitch. And they are citing 'health and safety' reasons for refusing to allow use of the access road and car park.

"The community group commissioned a report from me, as a health and safety professional, which clearly showed how the everyday and low hazards from what is essentially a piece of tarmac could be adequately controlled.

"Nothing infuriates me more than for health and safety to be used as an excuse. West Lancashire College should be ashamed of themselves and I'm calling on them to reconsider their decision.

"The county council want to use the site for redevelopment in the long term but they have been positive and agreed that a short-term lease would allow this excellent facility to be used in the coming few years.

Councillor Adrian Owens and Our West Lancashire activist Blair Piggin pictured on the 3G pitch which they say should be brought back into use for the local community.

"The community group have the skills, knowledge and enthusiasm to operate this facility at affordable rates. All it needs now is for West Lancashire College to back their local community in a simple, no-cost way."

Valuable

And despite the facility being based in Skelmersdale, Cllr. Owens stressed it would also serve the wider West Lancashire community.

The draft constitution of the community group states as its objects, the following:

The advancement of education, through the provision and maintenance of an outdoor physical education facility for the population of Skelmersdale and West Lancashire.

The advancement of amateur sport, through the provision and maintenance of an outdoor all-weather sporting facility for the population of Skelmersdale and West Lancashire.

Our West Lancashire activist, Blair Piggin added: "The tragedy we risk here is losing the most precious resource in those adults and youngsters who commit their time and effort to run these grass roots teams. The longer this is dragged out, and 'health and safety' is used as a catch-all excuse, the more the pitch deteriorates due to improper use and neglect. There will come a point when Skelmersdale will lose yet another valuable community resource to neglect - one that cost taxpayers more than £650,000."

The pitch has been left unused since Glenburn Sports College closed in 2016. Last year Carl Eaton, the manager of the Skem Men-Aces disability football club launched a petition addressed to Lancashire County Council calling for the facility to be opened to the community.

West Lancashire College and Lancashire County Council have been contacted for comment but had not responded when the Champion went to press.

County council backs campaign for changes to how mental health is viewed in the workplace

Report by Henry James

LANCASHIRE County Council is supporting a national scheme to encourage employers to change the way they think and act about mental health in the workplace.

The authority's cabinet member for health and wellbeing, County Councillor Shaun Turner and chief executive, Angie Ridgwell, signed the Time to Change pledge at County Hall on Thursday, February 7.

Time to Change encourages employers to show their commitment to change the way they think and act about mental health.

The campaign includes practical advice to help managers to identify some of the common issues that can affect employees' mental health at work and support their efforts to address them.

County Councillor Turner said: "We're committed to the Time to Change scheme and we'd encourage other organisations across Lancashire to sign-up.

"Mental Health issues affect one in four of us and work-related stress and anxiety all contribute to this.

"By helping to identify issues that are causing stress, being open about mental health issues and putting actions in place to give employees the support they need, you'll be making a huge difference to the wellbeing of your workforce.

"We're working closely with Time to Change and Remploy who offer support for local organisations and anyone who is suffering from work-related stress."

Firefighters tackle suspected arson attacks on successive days at former college site

FIREFIGHTERS have been called out to deal with two suspected cases of arson at the former West Lancashire College site at Yewdale this week.

The first, reported at about 3pm on Sunday, February 10, involved a fire on the second floor of a four-storey derelict building.

Two appliances from Skelmersdale and one each from Ormskirk and Wigan attended and were at the scene for three hours and 40 minutes with crews using four breathing apparatus, a partner saw, two jets and a hose reel.

A spokesman for Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service said: "The fire was thought to be of suspicious origin."

Crews were then called to the same site at just after 9pm on Monday, February 11 when four fire engines from Skelmersdale and Wigan attended another fire involving a derelict building on Yewdale.

Firefighters used eight breathing apparatus, two hose reels and three ventilation units to extinguish the blaze.

A spokesman for Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service said: "No injuries were reported but the fire is believed to have been started deliberately."

He added: "Whoever is doing this is putting themselves and the lives of firefighters at risk. The site would have been damaged on Sunday, so to go back and do the same thing was very dangerous. It is also taking fire crews away from the local area, who may have to deal with a house fire elsewhere."

The buildings formerly housed West Lancashire College until it moved to its present, purpose-built £42.8m campus at College Way in 2011.

Since then the former college buildings have been vandalised on numerous occasions.

Last November, we reported on the calls made by Skelmersdale North Councillor Neil Furey for the buildings to be demolished.

He told the Champion at the time: "The site is an utter disgrace and resembles a war zone with vandals being able to attack the building at will."

Co-op donation is welcome 'dividend' for food bank!

Report by Henry James

BIG-hearted colleagues at the Co-operative Bank's Delf House centre in Skelmersdale collected food and toiletries during January to donate to the town's Trussell Trust food bank.

Jo Carruthers, customer service leader at the centre in Southway, and Bev Hayman, the charity representative, delivered the donation - made up of 26kg of food and two full carrier bags of toiletries and cleaning materials - on Thursday, February 7.

They also enjoyed a tour of the site to see how the donations are distributed and how the Trussell Trust works.

The food will help to provide 15 family food parcels for people in need in the local area.

The Co-operative Bank also gives every staff member two volunteer days each year when they can help local charities. This year they have pledged to help Skelmersdale food bank with two colleagues going along every Thursday for the whole of 2019.

Jo Carruthers and Bev Hayman present the Co-op donations to Brenda Lowe and Fred Jones at the Skelmersdale food bank.

A similar commitment is being made by other Co-operative Bank sites providing 100 days of volunteer days at both Leek and Manchester Trussell Trust food banks as well.

A spokesperson for the Co-operative Bank commented: "This means together we can make a big difference to the community and show working together makes a stronger community helping people in need."

Bev Hayman said: "I would like to say thank-you to everyone at Delf House for their donations.

"I am also looking forward to arranging the volunteer day activity challenge for 2019 and am so thankful for the opportunity the bank give us to help local causes by using our two paid volunteer daysto make a difference."

Brenda Lowe, who accepted donations on behalf of the food bank, added: "I am absolutely overwhelmed at the support we get from the Co-operative Bank and we really appreciate not only the food donations and money they raise, but also their commitment of time.

"I cannot stress enough what a big difference they make."

MP swaps Commons for Pupil Parliament

ROSIE Cooper swapped the House of Commons for another 'seat of democracy' when she paid a visit to the SHARES Pupil Parliament at the Skelmersdale Youth Zone.

The meeting was set up to give the two representatives from each primary school in the Skelmersdale and Up Holland area who make up the Pupil Parliament the opportunity to ask the West Lancs MP questions and learn more about the role of an MP in the community.

Bike thief's knife threat to off-duty policeman

By our Court Reporter

A COURT has heard how a man from Up Holland man threatened to "slice" an off-duty policeman with a Stanley knife after being caught stealing a bike from a gym in Formby.

Wayne Poulton, 27, of Denholme, Up Holland, and Christopher Hutchinson, 29, of Harebell Street, Kirkdale, appeared at Sefton Magistrates Court where they both pleaded guilty to the theft of pedal cycles and using threatening words or behaviour likely to cause harassment, alarm or distress.

The court was told that the off-duty officer was passing the car park of the former Sports Direct gym, now known as the Everlast Fitness Club, at around 4.20pm on October 14 of last year when he spotted the pair.

Prosecutor Lynn Clark said: "The officer saw the two defendants on bikes leaving the gym car park. His attention was drawn to them because they had their hoods up, were checking over their shoulders looking back to the gym and appeared to be in a rush. That aroused his suspicion.

"He also said one of the males was struggling to ride one of the bikes."

After being informed by gym staff that two bikes had been stolen, the officer followed the two men in his car and confronted them as they headed towards Formby rail station.

As he did so, Poulton said: "You can have it" and abandoned the bike before running off towards the station.

Miss Clark said that the officer gave chase but when he made efforts to try and detain him Poulton said: "I have got a Stanley knife and I will slice you."

Meanwhile Hutchison was said to have taken pictures of the officer's car registration plate on his mobile phone.

Miss Clark said the men were seen to get into a taxi but were stopped by police nearby.

The court heard that Poulton had eight previous convictions for offences including for theft and violence; while Hutchinson had 14 convictions for offences including violence and dishonesty.

Solicitor Vicky Balenski, representing Poulton, who stole a £250 bike, said that he did not have a knife. "There was a suggestion that he had a knife and that he was going to use it but it was an empty threat to make the individual go away and that's exactly what he did.

"You will need a probation report. He has a number of issues including mental health issues."

Solicitor Tony Murphy, representing Hutchinson, said his client had not actually taken any taken any footage of the officer's car registration.

Magistrates adjourned the case for reports until March 5.

Company installs defibrillator

STAFF at a Skelmersdale salavage and recycling company teamed up with a national charity to complete a three-day first aid course before going on complete a defibrillator training course and install one of the lifesaving machines at their main site.

The event, at Hills Motors, Gerrard Place, East Gillibrands, was organised by the Oliver King Foundation which provides training in defibrillator awareness and emergency first aid.

Created in 2012 following the death of 12-year-old Oliver King from sudden Arrhythmic Death Syndrome, the foundation has since placed nearly 2000 defibrillators in schools and organisations across the UK.

The company's defibrillator is now registered with the North West Ambulance Service in case an incident occurs within the local vicinity.

Following the course Mark King from the Oliver King Foundation gave a talk to staff and presented them with their certificates of completion.

Northern Rail strike action suspended after guarantee over retention of guards

Report by Henry James

Saturday services on Northern Rail are expected to return to normal this week after the RMT union agreed to suspend strike action.

THE long-running strike action on Northern Rail services over the retention and the role of the guard on trains has been suspended following what the RMT union described as "substantial progress" in talks.

The union has said that Northern has now offered a guarantee of a conductor on all trains, including the new fleet, for the duration of the current franchise which runs until 2025.

The guarantee is supported by the Department for Transport.

RMT general secretary Mick Cash said: "Firstly I want to pay tribute to RMT's members whose resilience and determination though two years and 47 days of action has been the foundation on which this major breakthrough has been based

"I also want to thank the travelling public for their extraordinary support and both Andy Burnham and Steve Rotheram for their efforts that have been important in allowing us to break the deadlock.

"The offer of a guarantee of a conductor on all services throughout the duration of the franchise, including the new fleet, is the substantial progress we have been pushing for and has allowed RMT's executive to take the decision to suspend the current action and allow for further talks to now take place with all stakeholders around the operational details.

"The union will make further statements in due course."

Managing director of Northern, David Brown, commented: "We warmly welcome RMT's decision to suspend its strike action and recommence talks about what the future role of the conductor looks like.

"We have been very clear in these discussions that there will be a conductor on all our trains now and into the future. We are looking forward to further positive talks with RMT about operational models moving ahead so that we can resolve their dispute and bring it to an end.

"The suspension of the RMT strikes is good news for customers and businesses across the North."

The company said that it expected to recommence running a full Saturday service from February 16.

● A SURVEY by Transport Focus, the independent transport user watchdog, has shown that passenger satisfaction with rail services overall has fallen to a 10-year low. Overall satisfaction was 79 per cent, the lowest level since 2008 with more than one in five passengers not satisfied.

Artz Centre celebrates 7th Annual Awards Night

Glittering occasion marks another year of progress for community project

Report by Henry James

THE Artz Centre, Skelmersdale celebrated its 7th Annual Awards Night with a star-studded event at the DW Stadium in Wigan.

The evening saw some of the town's most creative young people being recognised for their talents and achievements of 2018, across a variety of Oscar-style award categories.

Sections included Best Newcomer; Best Male; Best Female Performances; Musical Achievement and to conclude the night, the revered prize for Artz Student of the Year.

The accolade this year, was awarded to Erica Lester (Senior Artz Student of the Year); Ruby Chisnall (Junior Artz Student of the Year); and Lucy Thompson (Infant Artz Student of the Year).

Officials of the Birch Green-based organisation declared the night a "roaring success" with more than 150 Artz Academy students in attendance, accompanied by their extremely proud parents, guardians and families.

And the evening also offered an exciting insight into what is to come for the Artz Centre in a jam-packed 2019.

Projects

The arts-based Community Interest Company already has a number of exciting new productions, projects, collaborations and events planned for the year ahead along with a continuation of last year's successful pilot projects, Artz Adults and the Artz RSL Exam Show.

2019 is also set to see the opening of a new Artz Centre, in the shape of the old Up Holland Library.

The venue will host new classes for the local community in musical theatre, drama, dance and music commencing later in the year.

Artz Centre director, Mark Ashton, said: "I would like to take a moment to reflect on what has been a record-breaking and award-winning year for the Artz Centre students and staff. As an organisation, we have achieved more in the past 12 months than similar groups would in 10 years.

"This year's Artz Award winners and brand new Artz 'Hall-of-Famers' are testament to the talent, creativity and ambition of just some of the young people in our town. What we achieve here in terms of both quality and quantity, is certainly not normal and 2019 is certainly set to be another brilliant and memorable year for our local people."

Conference will highlight support for vets with mental health and fitness issues

MEMBERS of the Skelmersdale Veterans' Association have organised a Walking Football conference when they will also be providing support to former members of the armed forces on issues including mental health and fitness.

The event will be held at the Evermoor Hub Community Centre in Digmoor from 12.30 to 5.30pm on Saturday (February 16).

The association is currently running a monthly walking football session at the Hub working closely with Ian Gaskell from Wigan Athletic Community Trust.

Alan Lewis from the Skelmersdale Veterans' Association said: "We would like to invite all veterans to our conference. The idea is that the event will provide them with motivation to get fit.

"Also, those who come will be able to make new friends and it will give them the chance to meet other agencies that can support them on issues such as PTSD and other mental health issues.

"The event is open to any veteran or family member and has been organised thanks to the strong partnership between our association and the Wigan Athletic Community Trust. It will be the first of its kind in West Lancashire."

Among the agencies to be represented on the day will be the Royal British Legion and the Help for Heroes charity and a TA Reservist Unit from St Helens will also attend and will be bringing along a display of weapons, including heavy guns.

Meanwhile, the veterans' walking football team are looking for companies to sponsor them. Anyone who can help or who would like to put a five-a-side team together, can contact Alan Lewis on SVACHAIR@OUTLOOK.COM or by ringing 07939 660048.

Engineering company weighs in with donation for reborn boxing club

THE recently-re-launched Birch Green Amateur Boxing Club has been given a helping hand - thanks to a donation by a Skelmersdale-based specialist engineering company.

The donation, by Trelleborg Offshore, enabled the club to purchase 15 sets of gloves, 10 skipping ropes and four sets of coaching pads.

John Drury, managing director of the company which has a site at Stanley Way, Skelmersdale, went along to the boxing club in Heversham, with human resources director, Andy Wood and sports and social committee member, Joanne Elias, where they presented the equipment to Birch Green ABC stalwart, Colin Day.

£18.3m extra funding for hospital trust will help to reduce deficit

SOUTHPORT and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust will receive £18.3m in extra funding for the next financial year.

Health chiefs say the money will help them reduce the trust's deficit and thereby avoid penalty fees.

The trust was expecting to receive similar funds to 2018 but will now benefit from the additional funding - some of which will also be invested in key areas such as orthodontia and A&E.

Chief executive of the trust, Silas Nicholls, said: "I'm delighted we have secured £18.3 million of additional funding to help improve our financial position – this money was more than we had been expecting from the Government and will help to alleviate existing pressures."

Extended

Over the past year, the work completed at the trust has included an extended and refurbished A&E department at Southport Hospital and the opening of an assessment unit for patients with urgent surgical referrals, as well as some patients arriving for planned procedures.

A day case unit has also been established at Ormskirk Hospital, along with a permanent discharge and transfer lounge at Southport Hospital for patients who are ready to go home; and quiet rooms at both hospital A&Es for patients who need a calm environment.

Ice cream company plan for new factory at East Pimbo site

Report by Henry James

ICE cream maker Froneri has submitted an outline planning application for permission to build a new factory in Skelmersdale following the demolition of an existing building.

The proposed new factory on the site in Prospect Place, East Pimbo would be for the production of ice with a new warehouse also being constructed alongside.

The building which they are proposing to demolish is currently used by the company as a temporary storage area.

Meanwhile the area earmarked for the warehouse is currently part grass and part hardstanding and is used to store pallets.

A design and access statement for the plans, prepared by architects Rone Design Ltd., states: "The social impact will be minimal as this factory and warehouse would be within an existing industrial estate.

"The factory will also create additional employment to an already well-established large employer within the area as they have factory and warehouse facilities already on the industrial estate."

The building that it is proposed to be demolished to make way for the new factory.

Access to the site would remain the same as at present and Froneri is looking for approval of the height and scale of its application.

The design and access statement continues: "The exact layout of the layout internally would need further development when submitting a full planning application."

According to the statement there are no listed buildings on or near the site, and the site does not appear to support any protected species of wildlife.

The Environment Agency's flood map of the area says the site is not within a high-risk area.

Twinkle House to benefit from Christmas tree recycling scheme

SKELMERSDALE-based charity Twinkle House is set to benefit from an annual scheme to recycle Christmas trees.

For the third year in a row staff at Queenscourt Hospice joined forces with Just Helping, a charity that works with hospices, businesses and volunteers, to collect and recycle trees in return for a donation.

A team of volunteers took in trees from throughout Southport, Formby, West Lancs and surrounding areas to be made into woodchip. This year they collected up a grand total of 1,120 trees, 254 more than last year.

Money raised is still being counted but after costs, 90% will go directly to Queenscourt, with the remaining 10% being donated to another charity nominated by the hospice.

This year's nominated recipient is Twinkle House, the wellness and sensory centre that provides free support sessions for children and young people with disabilities and additional needs.

The centre in Gorsey Place, East Gillibrands will use the money towards a new hydrotherapy pool.

Company behind town centre regeneration scheme declares 'successful' end-of-year results

ANNOUNCING its end-of-year results, developers St. Modwen, the company behind the regeneration of Skelmersdale town centre, has declared it "a successful 12 months".

The company says it has continued to forge ahead with its strategic objectives in the North West and claims there has been "significant" progress on a number of key schemes in the region, including Crosby Village and Skelmersdale town centre, as well the commencement of new projects such as Chamberhall Business Park in Bury.

In Skelmersdale, St. Modwen has moved forward with the first phase of development proposals to extend the town centre after West Lancashire Borough Council secured £19 million funding for the scheme, which includes a new retail park and improvements to the public realm.

German discount supermarket chain Lidl has been secured as the retail anchor alongside a proposed 20,000 sq ft B&M store.

Guy Gusterson, property director Midlands and North for St. Modwen, said: "We have made some significant progress across the North West region in the past year. We have some strategic sites across the region and it is encouraging to see progress at this rate.

"Placemaking and regeneration is at the heart of our purpose and all that we do; our expertise in regeneration sets us apart from our competitors in delivering our commercial and residential schemes, as well as our key development projects."

St. Modwen has more than 30 years' regeneration experience, specialising in 'complex and challenging' sites. Headquartered in Birmingham with three regional offices across the UK, the company has a portfolio valued at more than £1.4 billion.

Holiday Breakfast Club returns at new venue

SKELMERSDALE'S Holiday Breakfast Club returns at half-term at a new venue.

Due to a change in policy at Lancashire County Council, the club can no longer be held at Skelmersdale Library.

Fortunately though they have now relocated to Tanhouse Community Centre in Ennerdale and the club will continue at the usual time, from 9.30 to 10.30am, running from Monday, February 18 to Friday, February 22.

As ever, it is free and all are welcome, although children must be accompanied by an adult. There will be the usual craft activities, games and puzzles, as well as cereal, fruit, yoghurt and Maureen's scotch pancakes! The Junk Food Cafe will again be providing a free packed lunch every day.

Meanwhile organisers would like to say a massive 'thank-you' to all the staff at Skelmersdale Library for their help and support to get this project started.

Anyone who would like to like to donate cereals, craft materials or even money, can contact Councillor Claire Cooper on 07742 927 689 or by email at claire4birchgreen@gmail.com.

Talkzone advice service available all-year round

County council reminder to young people that phone and online support is on hand every day

Report by Kenny Parker

LANCASHIRE County Council is reminding young people that a phone and online service for when they are in need of help and advice is available every day of the year.

Talkzone offers advice, guidance, support and information for young people between the ages of 12 and 19. It is also available up to the age of 25 for young people with special educational needs or a disability.

Although it is usually advertised around Christmas and exam time when young people may be in need of someone to talk to, the county council, which runs the service, is keen for young people to know it is available all year around.

It can be accessed between 2 and 10pm by phone, email, text, Facebook, Twitter and webtalk.

County Councillor Susie Charles, Lancashire's cabinet member for children, young people and schools, said:

County Councillor Susie Charles.

"Talkzone is staffed by caring workers who are experienced in dealing with a wide range of issues - they've probably dealt with every problem and question under the sun. If you're a young person and need to discuss anything you can ring, text or email and one of our advisers will help. We've even tailored the hours that the service is available to fit with when young people use it the most."

Talkzone manager, Gaja Gannon, added: "We have qualified and experienced staff on hand, who are used to dealing with anything and everything that young people call about. They really can talk about any worries, whatever they might be.

"Recently we've been contacted about many issues including problems at home, anxiety, homelessness, finding a job, careers advice and bereavement.

"Talkzone can help young people with family and relationship issues - contraceptive, drugs and alcohol advice - or information about finding a job. No matter how big or small the issue is, Talkzone is available to help all young people in Lancashire."

Young people can contact Talkzone between 2 and 10pm on any day of the year by ringing on 0800 511111; texting on 07786 511111; by emailing talkzone@lancashire.gov.uk; or by visiting www.facebook.com/LancashireYZ.

Keith set to strike a chord at care home singalongs!

Former church band member gets back into the swing thanks to guitar gift

Report by Henry James

A CARE home resident and former church band member who first learned to play the guitar at the age of eight is set to strum the chords again - thanks to a generous donation.

Since moving into the Aaron Crest home in Tanhouse Road last September Keith Keenan has been a keen and regular participant in the monthly singing sessions for residents led by St Paul's parish priest, Reverend Dr Anne Kazich.

When Rev Kazich learned Keith used to play guitar in a church band she decided to find someone willing to donate a guitar to get him strumming again - and she did!

Now a delighted Keith is looking forward to getting back into the swing again.

He said: "I'm so happy with my new guitar and it will be looked after. I'm looking forward to learning the chords again that Dr Rev Anne has given me."

Rev Dr Kazich said: "Keith has been coming to our singing group and clearly enjoys taking part and he shared that he used to play the guitar in a worship band in his previous church and said he would love to do it again.

"On occasions he bursts spontaneously into beautiful worship hymns so I thought I would see if anyone is able to donate a guitar to make his dream come true - and that someone came forward.

"Keith enjoys expressing his love and worship for God in these ways and it would be a shame if he couldn't continue just because he is not in his own home anymore."

Keith Keenan with his new guitar and Reverend Dr Anne Kazich.

Keith was a regular churchgoer and was taught to play guitar by Pastor David Downes, of Skelmersdale Baptist Church, on Flimby, later becoming guitarist for the church band when he moved with his wife and children to Wigan.

Sadly, after moving back to Skelmersdale he was diagnosed with Korsakoff's syndrome - a chronic memory disorder - as well as epilepsy and neurological problems following a car accident.

He moved into Aaron Crest Care Home in September and has been regularly participating in the singing sessions with Rev Dr Kazich.

Home manager, Adrienne Ratcliffe, said: "Keith has been getting involved with many of our regular activities but has shown a special interest in the singing sessions with Rev Dr Anne Kazich. It was very kind of her to get him a guitar, which he absolutely loves. Despite his health conditions, he remembers how to play and has been practicing. Now we're looking forward to seeing him perform at future sessions with the Rev Dr."

The next singing session at the home will take place on Thursday, February 14 and all are welcome.

Good causes urged to apply for share of £3m lottery funding

Report by Henry James

CHARITIES and good causes in West Lancs are being urged to apply for a share of more than £3m of funding that has been raised by the players of the People's Postcode Lottery - before it's too late.

Applications are open until Wednesday, February 20 and organisations ranging from social enterprises to voluntary groups and registered charities are eligible to apply for grants of between £500 and £20,000.

Grants are available through three different trusts all funded entirely by players of People's Postcode Lottery with the sole purpose of supporting people and their communities across Great Britain. Each trust supports projects focused on specific themes.

The People's Postcode Trust looks to fund projects aimed at promoting human rights, combating discrimination and the prevention of poverty.

The Postcode Community Trust supports initiatives working to improve the health and wellbeing of communities, including arts and physical recreation projects, as well as those with a focus on reducing isolation

The Postcode Local Trust want to hear from groups working on flood prevention measures; those looking to implement renewable energy strategies and those dedicated to improving outdoor space, whether that's a play park, a skate park or something else.

Sports groups for military veterans, counselling support services for young carers and accessible play parks are just a few examples of the more than 1,600 projects that received funding in 2018.

Supported by players of

PEOPLE'S POSTCODE LOTTERY

Local good causes only have a week left to apply for grants available through the People's Postcode Lottery.

Local good causes are advised to take advantage by reading the short funding guides available and applying to the trust that best fits the aims of their project.

West Lancs MP Rosie Cooper said: "Funding from the People's Postcode Lottery's players makes a huge difference to thousands of good causes across the country.

"There are many incredible organisations across West Lancashire that would love a cash boost for a specific project. I therefore encourage any local charities or good causes who are looking for funding to apply as soon as possible."

For more information, to view the funding guides or to apply for a grant visit the trusts' websites directly at www.postcodetrust.org.uk; www.postcodelocaltrust.org.uk; and www.postcodecommunitytrust.org.uk.

Thinking of Moving House?

Moving house, re-mortgaging or dealing with the sale of a property when handling a Probate matter can be a stressful process at the best of times. When choosing which solicitor to instruct to deal with the legal aspects of the transaction, you need to be confident that they can handle the matter professionally, efficiently and still provide a personal service.

We have served the local community since the early 1800's and have dealt with a huge variety of property transactions over the years. Our conveyancing team is one of the most experienced in the area. We offer a high quality service and the Conveyancing Department at Dickinson Parker Hill was the first in Ormskirk to be awarded the Conveyancing Quality Scheme and was one of the first firms to be awarded this in the country.

So many conveyancing firms no longer offer the type of service which we believe a quality, professional conveyancing service demands. We pride ourselves on providing a high quality service mixing new technology with old fashioned service and professionalism. Your matter will be handled by an experienced conveyancer, rather than just an automated computer system and you will be able to deal with the conveyancer handling your matter, from start to finish, rather than having your transaction handled by a large impersonal team of file handlers. Our offices are always open during normal office hours and you will receive a warm welcome should you require an appointment.

Our team has a wide range of experience in all aspects of Conveyancing work including, sales, purchases, re-mortgages, new builds, Local Authority Right to Buy schemes, equity release mortgages and we also have experience in shared ownership properties. We can deal with Help to Buy Government Equity Schemes and of course Help to Buy ISA's. We are also able to give advice on Occupiers Consent and Deeds of Guarantee.

Whilst we proudly serve our local area including Ormskirk, Southport and throughout Lancashire and Merseyside, we are also able to deal with conveyancing matters throughout England and Wales.

We can visit you at home if you are unable to call into the office and at the end of the conveyancing process we offer free storage for legal documents such as title deeds, Wills and Powers of Attorney.

We can also provide advice in other areas of law including Family, Wills and Probate, Inheritance and Tax Planning, Lasting Powers of Attorney, Court of Protection matters, Employment, Accidents and Claims and a wide range of Commercial Law for business clients. We are also one of the few firms in the North West to offer the services of a Notary Public.

For further information please contact Kate, Grainne and Rachael who will be more than happy to assist, offer advice and provide a quote.

Emma has sights on international call-up with a little help from university scholarship

A SPORTY Edge Hill student is hoping to earn a call-up for the England senior women's cricket team, thanks to the support she has received through a scholarship from the Ormskirk university.

Emma Lamb, who is in the final year of a sport and exercise science degree, was awarded a 'Gold' Sport Scholarship, entitling her to an award of £1,000 per academic year towards her studies, plus free benefits including annual gym membership on campus, personal training and sport science support tailored to her individual needs.

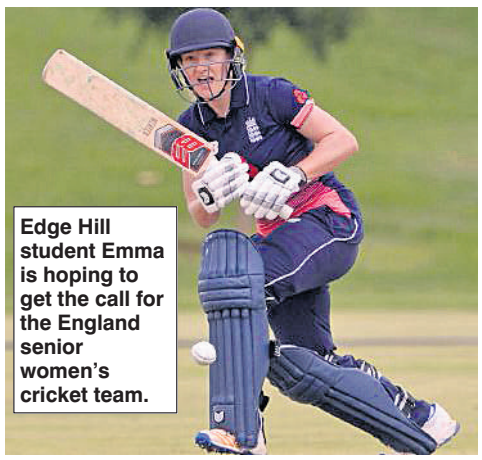
The 21-year-old currently plays with the England Senior Women's Academy and featured for the national senior team in an unofficial World Cup warm-up one-day victory over Ireland in April 2017.

She has played for Lancashire for more than a decade and has scored in excess of 2,500 runs in one-day and Twenty-20 formats since making her senior debut in 2012.

Being part of the national set-up entails training every other weekend at the England Cricket Board's main facility at Loughborough University, while she also does sessions with her county at Old Trafford. This means that forward planning is key to juggling her course work.

She said: "My training schedule varies, but it generally gets more full-on closer to the season. This means I have to plan in advance and make sure I prioritise doing my studies before training. I have good support staff at ECB who help me to do this, so I can always fit everything in."

At a time of a growing emphasis on women's sport, there's rarely been a better time to break through to the senior set-up. Contracts (currently 22 awarded to players) mean players can turn professional and focus on their game, while extra financial support, such as player sponsorships, is likely to enhance opportunities.



Edge Hill student Emma is hoping to get the call for the England senior women's cricket team.

Emma hopes that she will soon be selected for the national senior squad. "I feel that within the next year I will be making the full step-up into the senior squad if I continue to perform. This is my ultimate career goal, to play for England and make a mark with bat and ball. My aim is also to earn a full-time contract within the next two years.

"The women's game is evolving and becoming more high-profile. I think within the next few years there will be at least double the amount of full-time contracted players and hopefully the county standard will become full time in the long term as well."

Ormskirk-born gardener's masterpiece is still celebrated 234 years after its creation

THE incredible story of a man from Ormskirk who went on to become Russia's Imperial Gardener has been recalled following an email to the Champion!

A cultural link between the West Lancs market town and Kremenchug in Ukraine was brought to our attention when retired engineer Serhiy Lobinya contacted us to extol the virtues of his "favourite place" in his home city - a garden designed by Ormskirk-born William Gould.

Although little is known of Gould's early life, it is recorded that he was employed as gardener at Lathom House and became a protege of the man known as 'England's greatest gardener' Lancelot 'Capability' Brown.

And it's believed a recommendation by Brown led to Gould's Russian royal appointment in response to a call by Prince Grigory Potemkin, lover of Empress Catherine the Great, for English gardeners.

At that time Russia's empire covered much of present-day Ukraine and Gould worked on many of the imperial gardens, including what is now known as City Garden in Kremenchug - which brings us back to that unexpected email!

Addressing himself to the people of Ormskirk, Serhiy wrote: "Dear friends, I live in Kremenchug city, Poltava region. There is an old park which has the name of City Garden. I should say it is my favourite place in Kremenchug.

"The park was designed by William Gould, born in Ormskirk. He had a good career as a garden designer in the Russian Empire at the end of 18th Century.

William Gould's City Garden as it is now.

"It is interesting for me, but do Ormskirk people know about and remember William Gould? It is an interesting thing but due to that man a virtual cultural link exists between our cities."

And he added: "I like City Garden because it is a historical place, it is a beautiful nature place, is a part of my life."

June Bibby, a member of Ormskirk & District Family History Society, wrote a book about Gould, in which she said Empress Catherine II was known to adore English gardens and her lover Prince Grigory Potemkin became obsessed with 'Anglomania.' This resulted in a huge recruitment drive around 1775 to lure British 'experts', she said, including people to design gardens in the English style.

Among Gould's projects in Russia was overseeing the gardens at Prince Potemkin's Taurida Palace in St Petersburg. Plans for the palace gardens covered nearly 60 acres and it was there that Gould's reputation as an inventive and skilled gardener came into being. "Indeed, he was hailed as the Capability Brown of Russia!" writes June Bibby.

Gould went on to create gardens for numerous palaces throughout the empire, enjoying an opulent lifestyle with an abundance of servants and occasionally entertaining nobility.

It was in 1785 that he set out the Royal Grounds in Kremenchug, known as the English Garden Park and after Potemkin's death in 1791, he was appointed Imperial Gardener by Catherine.

Altogether he spent 30 years in Russia, returning to England in 1806 and from 1808 was known to have lived in Burscough Street, Ormskirk, with his daughter Elizabeth.

Although understandably much changed two centuries later the Kremenchug gardens, now called City Park, is still a favourite place for local people.

Fly-tipper set fire to dumped boxes during heatwave

Magistrates order him to pay £713 and carry out 250 hours of community service

A FLY-tipper who dumped a load of boxes next to a stubble field in West Lancashire and set fire to them, at a time when parts of the country were suffering serious wildfires, has been fined more than £700 and ordered to carry out 250 hours of community service.

Wigan Magistrates Court heard that Adam Stanton, of Coronation Drive, Crosby, was one of the occupants of a van seen by witnesses fly-tipping the boxes at New Causeway, Great Altcar.

They then set fire to the waste before leaving the scene next to a stubble field.

The incident took place last summer when the UK was experiencing an extremely hot and dry spell of weather and major wildfires had taken place in different parts of the country, including Lancashire.

The court was told that West Lancs Borough Council officers traced the vehicle back to Stanton. He was interviewed by council officers and admitted that he was driving the vehicle and was responsible for the waste being dumped.

When it was highlighted to him the possible danger setting fire to this waste could have caused he stated that he thought it might rain.

He later repeated in court that he thought it might rain and magistrates responded by saying unless he had been living in a different world they were "at odds" to understand how he was not aware that fires had been a significant problem nationally at the time he committed the offence and the potential harm he could have caused.

Stanton pleaded guilty to fly-tipping and to failing to comply with a legal notice asking him for details of who else was in the vehicle.

The boxes were set alight next to a stubble field during extremely hot and dry weather.

He was ordered to carry out 250 hours community service and to meet up with a probation officer 10 times.

He was also ordered to pay £628.56 costs and an £85 victim surcharge, making a total of £713.56.

Councillor Kevin Wright, West Lancs Council's portfolio holder for community safety, said: "Fly-tipping is a criminal offence and the severity of the sentence given here highlights this. The fact that the waste was set alight next to a stubble field when the country was experiencing a number of wildfires due to a prolonged period of hot weather adds to the serious nature of this incident.

"The council takes fly-tipping very seriously and will take action against offenders wherever possible."

Champion LETTERS to the Editor

It's wrong to label all people with weight issues as just lazy overeaters

IT is a pity Frank Baybutt (Champion, January 30) and Jim Sharpe did not wait a few days before firing off their rants about fat people. While it is undoubtedly true that a large number of people do overeat, there are also a significant number who do not fit into the simple input-output model that they suggest is the be all and end all of weight control. The human body is much more complex than that.

Recent research shared with the general public the previous week has confirmed that thin people have a genetic advantage over those who are heavier. Studies on family shapes, etc., have suggested this for years but the genetic evidence is now confirming these earlier observational studies.

Even medical conditions such as diabetes and thyroid issues including their treatment are well accepted reasons for weight going up or down. Tumours, hormones, chemical imbalance, physical life changes and even medical treatment are also widely accepted reasons for weight gain without excessive input of food. Even aging can have an influence.

The NHS provide plenty of information regarding medical conditions and weight gain for those who would like or need more information. Like the example given of alcohol dependency this can have psychological influences influencing psychiatric conditions with issues often becoming circular - are they saying that these are not illnesses!

I certainly know plenty of people who are heavier and take more exercise than I do and the complete reverse for thinner people who overeat.

It is quite easy and attractive to categorise people in the way these previous writers have done but it is difficult to distinguish just by cursory observation whether a person overeats or has some underlying condition.

If they can do that then they could be a boon to the medical profession and also provide support to individuals and their families who may have to suffer such judgements.

I know what I voted for

I READ with interest the recent article regarding my MP's views on Brexit.

I generally find Rosie Cooper to be an excellent MP who puts West Lancs residents first, and represents them well.

However I take real issue with the comment "West Lancashire voted to leave, but they did not vote to be worse off."

How does she know? Is this pointing out that the Brexit voters didn't think through the implications of leaving, or is it just patronisation?

Maybe it is putting words in the mouths of her constituents, or more likely just saying that leave voters are 'thick'.

I appreciate that we are now more informed than two years ago, however I, and others I am aware of, voted to leave and before we voted we DID consider the likely detrimental impacts of withdrawal, as well as the benefits. For the record I would do so again, worse off or not.

We did not vote for 'leave with a deal', we voted, as West Lancashire did and as a country to 'leave.'

So please, Rosie, don't assume why and why not I cast my vote one way or another. Instead respect the vote and support the will of your constituents and the manifesto of your own political party.

Mick Freeman, by email.

Proposed county council cuts are bad news for borough

LANCASHIRE County Council's proposed budget cuts for the coming year do not bode well for our families, our neighbours or our communities in West Lancashire.

The county council is controlled by a majority of Conservative councillors and it is their proposals which will be presented to full council. Hence, it is very unlikely these proposals will not be voted through on February 14.

All our local residents, but especially the elderly and those in need of practical support in everyday life, their families and carers, will be hit badly.

Very briefly, among the most concerning are the following.

LCC Wellbeing Service will cease, completely, having supported an average of 11,000 people each year since its launch.

Lancashire Break Time to cease, leaving carers without valuable downtime and their children without social interaction.

All LCC Home Adaptation Service provision will cease, no longer supporting falls prevention and assisting with independent living.

Care packages requiring attendance by two carers will be reassessed with the intention of single carer attendance, potentially compromising safety of both carer and client. Charges for use of LCC older people's centres will be increased for those who pay. Access to LCC welfare benefits advice will be restricted.

On street parking charges will apply in Ormskirk town centre. 18,000 street lights, countywide, will be turned out between midnight and 5am. Recycling centres at Burscough and Skelmersdale reduction of opening to 9 to 5 on only five days.

Please do just think what it means for those who will find 'their' cut the straw that breaks their hope and their spirit. Find full details in Service Challenge Savings Apppendices C and D on LCC website.

J. Lennon, by email.

Nothing about 'no deal' on the ballot paper

WITH reference to James Hancock's letter (February 6) I voted in the Referendum and don't recall the 'no deal Brexit' he alleges people voted for being an option on the ballot paper.

Jenny Walton, Ormskirk.

Time to end attrition of local services

DESPITE the Chancellor's recent announcement that the age of austerity is coming to an end, local government finances will continue to suffer cuts in the Revenue Support Grant. According to the Financial Times, there will have been effectively a 77% cut between 2015 and 2020.

This comes after five years of previous reductions, leading to drastic cutbacks in local services. What is left now are the bare bones. The proposed Lancashire County Council 2019/2020 budget will impose cuts in a number of important areas, involving the most vulnerable.

Time now for all local authorities, Tory, Labour or whatever, to put pressure on central government to bring this process of attrition to an end.

Were the moaners never young?

WHY are we still listening to residents moaning about the students?

There can be between 20 and 30,000 students at one time and if all of them decided to go into Ormskirk and make a noise on their way back, you would hear the noise in Liverpool! There may be a few that make some noise but not that many.

Without students Ormskirk would be a dead place. Look at the amount of shops that have closed down and what is in their place!

Did the moaners not have a young life and do things they will not talk about?

By the way, I'm a 72-year-old and can remember being a normal young man. Look back and see what you did when you where young.

Graham Williams, not-so-disgruntled resident.

Student flats plan for bus station site is out of character for town

I'M Ormskirk-born and am sad to see the architectural design of the proposed bus station building. It's not Ormskirk at all. It's backward thinking in design and resembles student flats in Liverpool.

We are a quaint market town, not Liverpool, and we should maintain the character of the area. The design reminds me of those rather dated 70s concrete buildings which are an eyesore today.

Also, I believe it's time we looked ahead and developed sites such as this for older people who need transport close-by, along with relevant retailers, doctors and wellbeing services.

Let's halt this flood of student flats of which there are enough. Let's halt the never-ending eateries that are purely student-focused.

Based on the Singapore model whereby residents live in small communities with services to hand, such developments have the potential to create a caring social hub for the aging population and could reduce the pressure elsewhere on the NHS. We could create such a hub on this site.

Sadly, it's all about making as much money as possible for those involved. It's not really about accommodating students, it's about maximising income and that's done with student accommodation.

The developers know very well that this site will be preferential to students and filling them will not be an issue.

There is no demand for extra rooms so it should not be allowed. Are people aware of how many beautiful character homes are being carved up to take students and maximise income? That should be halted too.

With regard to this bus station site, we should move forward of course, but land is precious and council tax payers should have a say as we pay high charges to live in Ormskirk. Students don't pay. They are just guaranteed income for the developers.

Let's use that precious land to care for our Ormskirk people and not add more transient student accommodation to an already saturated pot.

Ormskirk born and bred, by email, details supplied.

Affordable homes for residents should be priority

DURING discussions on the council's proposed Local Plan, the council claimed there was no land available for development in the district, so there was no alternative but to build on green belt.

Furthermore, there was no land available for development in adjoining districts, so we would have to dig up more fields to satisfy their housing requirement. I now read, with some dismay, that there is a proposed redevelopment of the bus station to provide 199 student flats.

Surely if the district so desperately needs housing that it is prepared to dig up green belt land, then the priority should be a redevelopment focused on affordable housing for residents.

Paul Coney, Ormskirk.

● FURTHER to the recent leaflet distributed around Ormskirk by Downing Students promoting their proposals for the bus station rdevelopment (which should be headed 'Yet more student accommodation development!') I am perplexed as to why residents have not been afforded the automatic courtesy of a full public consultation over an amenity that affects us all.

The elected councillors surely have a duty to keep Ormskirk's residents aware at every stage of their intentions for OUR town?

Regulator's glowing report for care home

Report by Kenny Parker

AN Aughton care home which provides West End-style entertainment for residents in its own 'Theatre of Dreams' has received a glowing report from regulator the Care Quality Commission (CQC).

Management and owners of Springfield Court Nursing Home in Springfield Road are delighted after being given an overall rating of 'outstanding' following the CQC inspection.

The home's previous rating was good after an inspection in 2016.

The inspectors' report told of how they saw "oustanding, person-centred care" and noted how the owners, Wendy and Colin Wilkinson, have lived on site for 30 years and "know the needs of all service-users and consider them to be family."

They also commented on how an extension, originally built in 2010 to increase the number of bedrooms, had become instead a 'Theatre of Dreams',

The report noted: "Six to eight times each year, the theatre was turned into an extravagant venue and the providers organised West End acts to perform." It said the "elegant dinner evenings" were enjoyed by residents, their relatives, staff and the wider community.

Springfield Court activities co-ordinator, Liz Wynne, owners Wendy and Colin Wilkinson, manager Linda Burrows and Pauline Lunt pictured with their 'outstanding' CQC report.

Helena Dennett, CQC's Head of Inspection (North West) Adult Social Care added: "We saw there was a strong desire, led by an experienced management team, to take the time to learn people's histories and experiences, and include them in their care planning. Staff recognised and embraced the importance of people maintaining their interests, personalising the support had a significant positive impact on the people living in the home.

"We also saw how compassionate staff were and how they approached end-of-life care in an empathetic way. Families told us the approach had benefited them and their mental wellbeing.

"It was clear that providing high-quality person-centred care was a priority for the provider, and staff too were highly valued.

"Well done to everyone involved with the service. An excellent example of outstanding care and improvement."

Home manager, Linda Burrows, on behalf of management and the owners, said: We are absolutely delighted to have achieved the outstanding rating from the CQC, which acknowledges the wonderful team of staff that we have here.

"All staff play a magnificent part in ensuring our residents are not only well cared for but that they are also kept entertained, with different activities to suit everybody a major part of our day. It is wonderful that this has been recognised by CQC in their visit."

Cyclists are fine by me - as long as they stick to riding single file

LET'S be clear about this. I do NOT hate cyclists - well not many of them anyway.

We all know of the stupid ones who have the strange idea that things such as traffic lights, zebra crossings and pavements, which it is usually agreed are for walking on, just do not apply to them. But the vast majority simply enjoy their bikes and the undoubtedly good exercise they bring.

In my teenage years (I come from a generation when we still had teenagers, rather than young adults) I rode my Raleigh Blue Streak (quite the Bees Knees in the early 1960s) not perhaps for pleasure as such, but as a means of getting around. And more particularly perhaps, because I lived in Maghull but went to school in Crosby, my mum would give me half of the bus fare if I cycled to school. Occasionally though my brother George and I would set off just for a bike ride - Ormskirk and its park was a favourite destination - and we always cycled in line so as to keep out of the way of motorised traffic.

Now I know that if you have an interest, say in cycling, it can often be more fun and sometimes financially prudent, to join a club made up of folk with a similar interest. And in the particular case of cyclists, this will obviously mean peddling off with fellow club members for a healthy day out in the open air. So yes, a lengthy string of cyclists is bound to be a hazard for motorists intent on getting wherever they are going, but I reckon it's reasonable to put up with the occasional hold-up while you wait for a suitable chance to overtake in safety.

Unhappily though, too often these groups of happy cyclists decide they want to chat to each other , which is when they cease to be a reasonable feature of the road and become, to put it bluntly, a menace.

The other day en route to Champion Towers in Southport I was reading my book as usual when I realised the bus was travelling particularly slowly and looked around for the cause. I didn't have to look far.

Ahead of us was a gaggle of happy bikists out for a day's ride - quite a lot of them. But it wasn't the number that was causing the real problem.

The road was narrow, yet these intrepid bike riders were obviously in a sociable mood and were riding sometimes side-by-side chatting, occasionally a third would join in, and the bus was stuck. Not for a minute or two but for at least a mile. A fed-up motorist behind, eventually decided enough was enough and dangerously overtook both bus and cyclists - no doubt recorded on a number of faithful head-cams to be used in evidence in case of accident.

The simple fact is that these cyclists were completely oblivious to the fact that their behaviour was causing frustration and yes, road rage, for all other traffic using that road.

I bet that if any one of them was driving his or her car and was held up for a lengthy period by, say, a caravan, they would start to mutter things like 'Why can't he pull over for a while and let the traffic through?'

Now I'm not even suggesting that those bike riders should have to do that, but they could perhaps ride in two or three groups with a goodly gap between them, and never ride two or more abreast on a narrow road without a thought for the traffic piling up behind them.

I hope I am not a killjoy but I felt for our bus driver who was steadily losing time on his schedule, And I could understand the frustration of the car driver who undoubtedly took a big risk in his overtaking manoeuvre.

I suppose I might well have the full weight of the cycling fraternity ringing the bell (if only most of them had one) and calling 'time' on my ramblings. But, as my old mum used to say: "It's only for your own good!"

School Council members stage their own 'Parliamentary debate' during London trip

PUPILS at a West Lancs primary school enjoyed a trip to London to visit the Department for Education and the Houses of Parliament.

The eight young members of the School Council at All Saints Primary School in Hesketh Bank had been due to meet Jonathan Slater, permanent Secretary for the Department for Education, and their MP, Seema Kennedy, but both were involved in improtant business in Parliament on the day.

However, they were met by Jenni Smitton, Shenara Pennycooke and Orlando Soulsby from the Department for Education and a member of Seema Kennedy's team.

The pupils also enjoyed guided tours of the Department for Education and the Houses of Parliament; listened to debates in both the House of Commons and House of Lords; and even staged their own mock debate at which they 'passed a law' to ban smoking!

Headteacher, Tony Currie, said, "We had the most amazing time and are so proud of every single child - they were great ambassadors for our school.

"For one of the school councillors, Stephanie, it was a particularly momentous occasion as she walked in the footsteps of her late grandfather, David Roebuck who was a Preston Councillor in the 1980s.

"During his political career he held various roles including vice-chair of the Police Liaison Committee alongside the then chairman, former football star, Sir Tom Finney; and in 1987 he stood for Parliament for the Labour Party in South Ribble."

Make a Splash at the North West Puddle Jumping Championships During February Half Term

This February half term, children of all ages are being encouraged to grab their wellies, get outside and join in the North West Puddle Jumping Championships being held at WWT Martin Mere in Burscough, Lancashire.

Children will compete against each other to see who can produce the biggest splash from their puddle jump – as measured by special splash-o-meters. They will also be judged on their enthusiasm and jumping style. Daily winners will be announced throughout the half term and lucky 'super-splashers' will receive fantastic prizes!

As well as the main puddle jumping competition area, there will be a practice zone set up to help entrants perfect their splashing techniques. The craft room will also be open daily for puddle jumping themed arts and crafts.

Victoria Fellowes from Martin Mere said:

"We know that children love nothing more than to splash about in puddles, so we thought we'd give them the chance to channel their inner splasher through our puddle jumping competition.

We've really perfected the championships this year, with a brilliant competition area, a practice puddle zone, additional welly related activities, great prizes and expert judging panels.

It's all a lot of fun and we know that children who love puddles often grow up to be adults that love the outdoors. So through these championships we're gently nurturing a love that may help protect wetlands and the wildlife that depend on them for years to come."

As well as the puddle jumping area, visitors can attend daily talks and feeds to find out more about some of the species at the centre, explore our grounds and reserve, play in our adventure playground, grab a tasty treat from our café and check out our amazing gift shop.

University and gallery team up for exhibition exploring 19th Century medicine

by Danielle Thompson

A FAMILY-friendly interactive exhibition, jointly organised by Edge Hill University, exploring the wonder and fear of 19th-century medical science is currently on display.

Dr Jekyll's Study: Science and Medicine in the 19th Century is set in a Victorian doctor's study, complete with real surgical instruments and medical equipment from the period, and exhibits to test if visitors have the steady hand and nerve needed by a surgeon of that era.

The free exhibition, open from 10am to 4pm, runs at The Atkinson in Southport until Saturday, May 25 and marks the beginning of an ongoing collaboration between the Ormskirk university and the Lord Street gallery.

Specialists

The exhibition has been developed and curated by academics Dr Laura Eastlake, Dr Andrew McInnes and Dr Bob Nicholson, all from Edge Hill's Department of English, History and Creative Writing, and Dr Douglas Small, a Wellcome Trust Research Fellow from the University of Glasgow.

Contributors are all specialists in 19th-century literature, history and medicine, and the exhibition, which is sponsored by Alcohol Research UK and the Past and Present Society, follows Edge Hill's 2018 conference, Substance Use and Abuse in the Long Nineteenth Century.

The medical equipment, which includes anaesthetic and ophthalmological instruments, has been loaned by the Thackray Medical Museum, Leeds.

The 19th Century was a time of rapid advances in science and medicine with discoveries about the human body and mind that were thrilling, but could also seem terrifying. Some of the most famous monsters in fiction were inspired by the scientific discoveries of the time and this exhibition explores the connections between 19th-century medicine and literary works that it influenced, such as Frankenstein (1818), Dracula (1897) and The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde (1886).

Visitors can learn about women like Florence Nightingale and Mary Seacole, who pioneered new nursing techniques and paved the way for the first female doctors, and see first editions of the Sherlock Holmes stories whose author, Arthur Conan Doyle, also trained as a doctor before turning his hand to writing fiction.

Beware when walking wintry waterways

THE Canal & River Trust is reminding people to take extra care on the towpaths while enjoying the waterways this winter.

The charity, which cares for 2,000 miles of canals and rivers in England and Wales, has offered the following top tips for towpath visitors this winter:

- Whether running, walking or cycling, be safe and tell someone where you are heading, take your mobile phone.
- The towpath can be slippery when wet and icy so wear sturdy footwear and be careful where you tread. Stay away from the edge.
- Make sure you are wearing enough layers and check the weather before heading out.
- Daylight draws in fast during the winter months so try to avoid routes along icy towpaths in the late afternoon.
- Ice on the canal will not support your weight. Do not step on the ice.

Debbie Lumb, national health & safety advisor at the Canal & River Trust, said: "The waterways look beautiful in the frost and snow and it's no wonder people want to head to the towpath for a wintry walk.

"However, with the cold temperatures and the dark afternoons and nights, it's even more important to remember the potential dangers of walking, running or cycling along the edge of the water.

"Some towpaths aren't lit up after dark and when it's very cold it's all too easy to slip on ice or wet ground and fall in.

"Our message is to take care near the edge of the water, go with someone or tell someone where you are going."

The charity also advises dog walkers to keep dogs on leads during a freeze in case they run onto ice, and to never follow their pets on to a frozen canal.

More information about staying safe near the water is available at website https://canalrivertrust.org.uk.

Boxer rescue charity launches £250k kennels appeal

A CHARITY which rescues boxer dogs from all over the UK and other parts of the world and currently uses private kennels in West Lancashire has launched a campaign to raise £250,000 to purchase its own kennels.

Joey's Legacy Boxer Rescue was set up 10 years ago by Nicky Healy and is named after her beloved boxer, Joey which passed away in 2012.

Finding the breed to be such a lovable companion, she set up an online forum for other boxer lovers and soon found herself helping to re-home rescue boxers.

The charity came into being after she was approached by the RSPCA to rescue a boxer who was days away from death.

With a small amount of savings Nicky says she invested in a website, vet bills and kennelling fees at a facility in Ormskirk.

Since then the charity has expanded and she now has helpers worldwide - including Spain, Romania and even China - who rescue dogs.

She also has a team of volunteers across the UK to help check out the suitability of potential new owners when looking to re-home dogs.

And although the charity has limited resources it pays vet bills for dogs that come into its care and funds behaviour classes for those that are not ready to be passed on to a new family.

Joey's Legacy also has to pay for kennel bills when they can't re-home a dog, a significant drain on the charity's funds which has prompted Nicky's ambitious plan to purchase their own kennels with a fundraising target of £250,000.

And thanks to a generous donation from one animal lover, they have already raised £40,000 to wards their target.

Nicky said: "We need to greatly reduce the money we spend on boarding kennels so that we can invest more into our dogs and be more hands-on with them on a daily basis. That in turn will mean more successful adoptions, less dogs being returned to rescue and all dogs getting our full attention regardless of day or time."

Nicky Healy (right) with Tracey Hillon and Lynne Wilcock and Carson.

The charity doesn't have its own transport and welcomes volunteers with vehicles to help with home checks and transporting all over the country.

Nicky added that having their own kennels would also enable them to provide opportunities for voluntary work for those wanting to get into the animal care industry.

Mental health initiative shortlisted for award

A JOINT initiative to support people in mental health crisis, has been shortlisted in a prestigious awards scheme.

The number of people requiring mental health treatment in the UK is rising while at the same time the number of mental health hospital beds has dramatically decreased.

Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust and the Richmond Fellowship have been working together, to develop alternative ways of providing support for those in mental health crisis. And they have been shortlisted in the 'Best Not for Profit Working in Partnership with the NHS' category of the HSJ Partnership Awards 2019 which aim to highlight the most effective partnerships between the private and third sector and the NHS.

The organisations have been working together since 2016 and have opened two crisis houses in Lancashire, which provide a small number of beds and a safe, home-like environment. They have also developed an innovative model of supporting people who attend A&E in crisis and run a café at The Harbour Hospital in Blackpool, providing apprenticeship opportunities for people recovering from mental ill health to help them get back into employment.

The winners will be announced at a ceremony on March 20 in London.

Health chiefs welcome new GP services contract

A NEW five-year contract for general practice across England, which it is hoped will see extra investment for improved access to family doctors, expanded services at local practices and longer appointments for patients who need them, has been welcomed by regional health leaders.

The deal, the biggest reform to GP services in 15 years, has been approved by NHS England whose chief executive, Simon Stevens said it is the first major pillar implementing the NHS Long Term Plan, just weeks after the plan was published.

The new contract has been received positively by health and care leaders in Lancashire and South Cumbria, who said it would accelerate work underway to sustain and transform primary care.

They believe extra investment will increase the numbers of staff working in general practice, including pharmacists, physios, paramedics, physician associates and social prescribing support workers.

The contract will also see neighbouring practices working together as primary care networks, with multi-disciplinary teams working alongside other community services.

Dr Malcolm Ridgway, senior responsible officer for Primary Care, for Healthier Lancashire and South Cumbria, said: "This is fantastic news and a welcome boost that will accelerate our programmes of work to support, sustain and transform primary care.

"One of our key priorities is to grow the general practice workforce to meet current and future needs, and in addition to our work to recruit and retain GPs we are supporting increases in the wider clinical workforce such as nurses, pharmacists, physicians' associates and paramedics working in practices across Lancashire and South Cumbria.

"Our work to support primary care networks is moving at pace, with network agreements in place for all of our practices, and we will continue to work closely with our local clinical commissioning groups and practices to support their development."

Friendship group shortlisted for national award

A LOCAL friendship group has been shortlisted for a national family-friendly award.

Officials and volunteers at the Ormskirk and Southport District of the Oddfellows were thrilled to discover that they have made the last round of the Best Age-Friendly Welcome category at the Fantastic for Families Awards.

The awards showcase the UK's best family-friendly organisations and contributors to arts and culture and have included the Best Age-Friendly category to recognise venues and organisations which have made an exceptional effort to ensure that older visitors within their communities can access a wide range of activities and events.

Judith Catton, events organiser for the Ormskirk and Southport District Oddfellow, said: "We pride ourselves on being accessible to everybody, but we also recognise the challenges presented in later life for our members. Ensuring our events are spread out over the week and at different times of day helps to provide a fun and varied calendar of events for the older generation to get involved with.

"We also make sure that events are either free or costs kept down so they are affordable for people on low incomes. And we try our best to have mobility-friendly venues and promote lift-sharing for people who struggle with transport.

"Making and maintaining new friends in later life doesn't come as easy as it did in the school playground, so as a group we meet regularly to stay in touch, share some laughs, and look out for each other."

To find out more about the group, call Judith on 01704 545279 or email judith.catton@oddfellows.co.uk.

Fund for schemes to tackle reoffending open for new bids

LANCASHIRE'S Police and Crime Commissioner Clive Grunshaw has praised a number of projects which have succeeded in tackling reoffending in the county thanks to funding last year, as the fund reopens for new applications.

With £80k available across four local Reducing Reoffending Boards covering the north, south, east and west of the county, charities, organisations and partners will be able to bid for projects that will work with offenders in their areas and help integrate them back into the community.

The boards understand the concerns and needs of local people and play a key role in identifying the benefits of schemes for local areas. Representatives include Lancashire Constabulary, local authorities and the regional Community Rehabilitation Company.

Last year also saw the appointment of a new chair to help ensure there is consistency in each area and that they work towards the commissioner's priorities.

Clive Grunshaw.

In September last year, more than £160k was provided to nine projects across Lancashire and the commissioner has seen first-hand the work that these have been doing and the positive impact they are having.

He said: "Since my reducing reoffending funding was created, it has been fantastic to hear the real difference the funding has been making, both for individuals and communities across the county.

"Policing alone cannot prevent people reoffending and this opportunity to distribute further funding allows us to build on this work, which is helping turn people's lives around and making Lancashire a safer place, which can only be a good thing."

The commissioner's reducing reoffending funding is currently open for applications, until 9am on Monday, February 25. Any organisations wishing to apply for funding or requring more information should visit https://lancashire-pcc.gov.uk/our-money/grant-funding/lancashire-reducing-reoffending.

Half term 'creative' fun on offer at gallery

Venue offering opportunities for children, 8-12

Report by Kenny Parker

THIS half-term the Chapel Gallery in Ormskirk will be providing opportunities for children aged 8-12 to explore their creativity through the technology of stop frame animation and kaleidoscopic film.

At Giant Stop Frame Animation on Tuesday, February 19 youngsters can explore the exciting world of animation with this stop frame animation workshop.

Stop frame animation is the film making technique in which objects are physically manipulated in small increments between photographed frames so that they appear to exhibit independent motion when the series of frames is played back as a fast sequence.

Working in teams, children will create a film.

Then at Kaleidoscope Art Film on Friday, February 22 children can design psychedelic patterns and watch them come to life under a giant kaleidoscope. Creating psychedelic, symmetrical patterns, children will record them moving under a large mirrored system to make abstract, looping films.

Both sessions are between 10.30am and 12.30pm and cost £6 each. Places are booked in advance and this can be done by calling the Chapel Gallery, St Helens Road, on 01695 571328, by emailing chapel.gallery@westlancs.gov.uk or through website www.chapelgallery.org.uk.

The gallery is also providing a number of free activities linked to its current exhibitions.

Children can become a history detective looking for clues in images from Opening the Gates, which tells the story of women during WW1. They can also cut out and dress a card doll in uniforms from WW1.

While in The Loop Effect, which explores the process used in digital animation, children can discover the wonder of repeat patterns and colour blending.

Also for children, hiding in the gallery are the Chedarty's, the gallery's friendly family of creative mice. Children are invited to try and find where they are hiding. They can also choose one of the family characters to colour in and add an imaginative background to win a prize.

Councillor Yvonne Gagen, cabinet member for leisure, said: "These workshops are going to be very popular with children so book your place as quickly as you can by contacting the gallery."

There is a monster load of fun to be had at Ormskirk's Chapel Gallery this summer.

Former Corrie star in show

A NEW version of Bertolt Brecht's Mother Courage and her Children, a 'dynamic' co-production between Headlong and the Royal Exchange Theatre, Manchester is being staged in the city until March 2.

Julie Hesmondhalgh returns to the stage in this iconic title role and is being joined by a powerful team of actors including Rose Ayling-Ellis, Simeon Blake-Hall, Hedydd Dylan, Conor Glean, Colm Gormley, Kevin McMonagle, Tachia Newall, Nick Pynn and Guy Rhys.

Headlong associate director Amy Hodge directs this new adaptation by Anna Jordan.

Mother Courage and her Children exposes the absurdity of political conflict and the all-encompassing world of war.

Julie Hesmondhalgh studied at LAMDA and is well known for her portrayal of Hayley Cropper in Coronation Street, a role she left after 16 years having won multiple awards.

If I won the Lottery, I would order a Morgan!

SUPPOSE Donald Trump – a US president who, whether you love him or loathe him, once vowed to sort out North Korea by chomping on cheeseburgers with Kim Jong-un – starts a nuclear war.

Without wanting to go all Where The Wind Blows on you, I reckon there's a fair chance all of us would be completely obliterated in the subsequent missile exchange – except, of course, the cockroaches.

And Morgan, I'd like to bet. Even in the most ridiculously over-the-top post-apocalyptic scenario I reckon there'll still be a queue of people cheerily lining up to buy a Plus 4, completely unmoved by whatever's going on in the wider world because they're delighted that there's no longer a seven-year waiting list. The Malvern sports car manufacturer just quietly got on with doing its bit through two World Wars. It shrugged off The Great Depression, the Three Day Week and The Credit Crunch. Where Armstrong-Siddeley, Austin-Healey, Alvis and Ascari have all come and gone (and those are just the defunct Brit carmakers beginning with 'A'), Morgan's just carried on regardless.

Which is why I suspect, that in a week when Nissan announced it was pulling X-Trail production from Sunderland, Jaguar Land Rover posted a £3.4 bn quarterly loss and Ford's global profits dipped by 50 per cent, Morgan's announced record profits for the third year running. Despite, as it turns out, actually making fewer cars than it did a year ago.

All this even though there are many people – including lots of devoted car nuts – who hate Morgans. There are plenty of perfectly normal, well adjusted people who just don't understand why you'd spend the best part of forty grand (and that's the starting price for a 4/4 these days) for a creaky throwback of a car that's been in production since 1936 and has bits of wood in its construction.

But there are, as it turns out, an equally sizeable army of driving die-hards who really, really love Morgans – me included. If I ever won the Lottery (which is extremely unlikely, given that I don't play it) I'd be straight on the phone with an order for a 3 Wheeler and a Plus 4. Chances are they'll be outhandled by any contemporary hot hatch, but that's missing the point – where else are you going to find a car that feels quite so organic to drive? Morgans are old-fashioned and make you work for your thrills, but that's why people find them so endearing.

It could happily churn out Plus 4s for the next 1,000 years and people would still be sticking orders in, but instead it's busy working on a new model - the new 'wide bodied' car, which will fit in where the old V8 models left off last year.

I'm glad that Morgan's on a roll. As long as people are queuing up for quirky sports cars with ash frames, you just know that everything else will be alright…

Long-serving employee is promoted

IAN MCKEOWN has been promoted to branch supervisor at 06 Vauxhall Skelmersdale after 20 years' service with the dealership.

A spokesman for 06 Vauxhall said: "Being able to offer customers the best service is a key aspect to success and one of the most important factors in delivering that service is the people - which is why knowledge and experience are valued so highly at 06 Vauxhall.

"Ian McKeown, resident Vauxhall expert, has been promoted to branch supervisor at Skelmersdale after working at the company for more than 20 years.

"With his in-depth knowledge of all things Vauxhall, along with always putting customers first and going above and beyond every time, Ian has well and truly earned his stripes."

Adrian Dickson, a 'top-performer' at the company's Ormskirk branch was transferred to Skelmersdale to work as a new service adviser alongside Ian.

06 Vauxhall hope that the duo will deliver a first-class service at Skelmersdale, together with Sue Riley, after sales manager across both Skelmersdale and Ormskirk sites.

Sue has been with 06 Vauxhall for more than 13 years and the company says her knowledge and customer service skills are 'second to none'.

Burscough set to slip down table due to lack of fixtures

BURSCOUGH'S enforced exile from competitive football continues and Linnets supporters have another 13 days to go before they play again.

It will be a whole month without a game when they visit Irlam on Tuesday, February 26.

A number of restless supporters have commented as to how unfair it is that the North-West Counties League have organised the fixtures this way and how damaging it can be for a club to go so long without playing.

For the record Burscough have not surprisingly dropped to ninth in the Premier Division table and will have games in hand on all those teams around them when they eventually play a league game again.

Burscough next six matches are as follows:

February 26: Irlam (A);
March 2: Barnoldswick Town (H);
March 9: 1874 Northwich (A);
March 16: West Didsbury & Chorlton (H);
March 19: Northwich Victoria (A);
March 23: Whitchurch Alport (A).

Skem face tough trip to title challengers as they look to narrow gap to safety

Report by Neil Leatherbarrow

SKELMERSDALE United face a difficult game on Saturday as they travel to Tameside where they will play Mossley.

Skelmersdale need to win but their hosts will be thinking the same, as they are currently four places off the top of Evo-Stik Division One West and still harbour outside hopes of lifting the league title and with it the one guaranteed promotion place.

Skelmersdale will be without central defender Michael White who will be serving the third of a three game suspension caused by his dismissal in the home defeat against Chasetown.

They will also be looking to bounce back after a 6-0 reversal at Ramsbottom United in their last league game.

However, on paper that doesn't look quite as bad now, as in their next game the Rams remarkably drew 5-5 with National League AFC Fylde in the FA Trophy.

Skelmersdale will have had an important home game last night (Tuesday, February 12) against Clitheroe.

If Skelmersdale win, and it is possible, it will boost their hopes greatly, especially as it is turning into a four way fight to avoid the two relegation places, Clitheroe, Glossop North End and Kendal Town the other immediate protagonists.

On the trip to Mossley, a repeat of last season's result would be very welcome to manager Paul McNally when a 4-4 draw was one of the highlights of the season when Skem fought back from three goals down.

Mossley won 5-1 when the two met at Prescot in November.

On Saturday they won 4-1 at Widnes, but lost their last home game 2-0 to league leaders Atherton Collieries.

Before that you have to go back to December 1 to find a loss, 1-0 at Newcastle Town.

They are far from invincible at home though winning only seven of thirteen home league games. Although a victory is unlikely on Mossley's inconsistent home form it could be said that it is far from impossible.

Michael White is still suspended for Skem. Picture by John Driscoll

They stil have an outside chance of winning the league, but they are currently in fourth spot in the table and 11 points behind league leaders Atherton Colleries, but a win against Skem could put them in a good position to push on for the remainder of the season.

Skelmersdale go international on Saturday, February 23 when they play Colwyn Bay away, and then in the first week in March they arguably face a pair of crucial home games that will almost certainly decide their end of season fate.

Glossop at home on Saturday, March 2, followed by Kendal Town at home on Tuesday, March 5.

Having those two games up their sleeve has retained hope down at Skem; a pair of victories could conceivably turn their season around. They will need all the support they can get in those.

Edge Hill women's team in action

Women's team crush Bangor to boost hopes of league triumph

EDGE Hill University's women's team produced an eye-catching result when they crushed Bangor 13-2.

The huge victory puts them right in the mix for the Northern 2A league title. Having edged a nine-goal thriller last time they faced the Welsh side in October, such a one-sided scoreline was not expected – but having gone 3-0 in the first five minutes, there was no coming back for the visitors who eventually trailed 8-1 at the break.

Ruby Howard, Mia Pemberton, Tori Baxter (her first goals for the team), Annabel Ainscough and Chelsey Jukes all scored twice, with Cara Bickett, Kayleigh Monaghan and Chloe Green also on target.

Meanwhile, Edge Hill University's women's hockey team are just one win away from a second successive league title after claiming a 2-0 revenge victory at title rivals Manchester thirds. Having suffered their only defeat this term to the same opposition, a 5-2 reverse in late November, they came back to produce an impressive display.

Forward Anna Hollis celebrated her selection for the England Universities squad with the opener, with Yasmine King sealing the win.
